

PE is the most important subject. If we don't look after our minds and bodies through sport and exercise, we will find learning anything else tricky anyway!

Alice

I actually believe the subjects are not important at all. What is important is the values we learn. If we learn to be independent, confident, resilient, hardworking, respectful etc then we can apply these values to everything and be successful. Maths, Reading and Writing are definitely the most important subjects that is why we spend so much more time learning them than any of the other subjects. You need them to help with all the other subjects you learn too.

Carys

Art is the most important subject to me because I want to be an artist when I am older. I know it is not the most important to everyone in my class though. Who do you agree/disagree with? Why?

I think every subject is equally important, especially when we are at primary school and might not know what we want to do in the future. As you get older, some subjects might become more important as you might need it to do the job you choose.

Duncan

Here are some young people's opinions

Labeeq

ns about which subjects they think

 $\frac{2}{\frac{+3}{5}}$

Elijah

are most important.

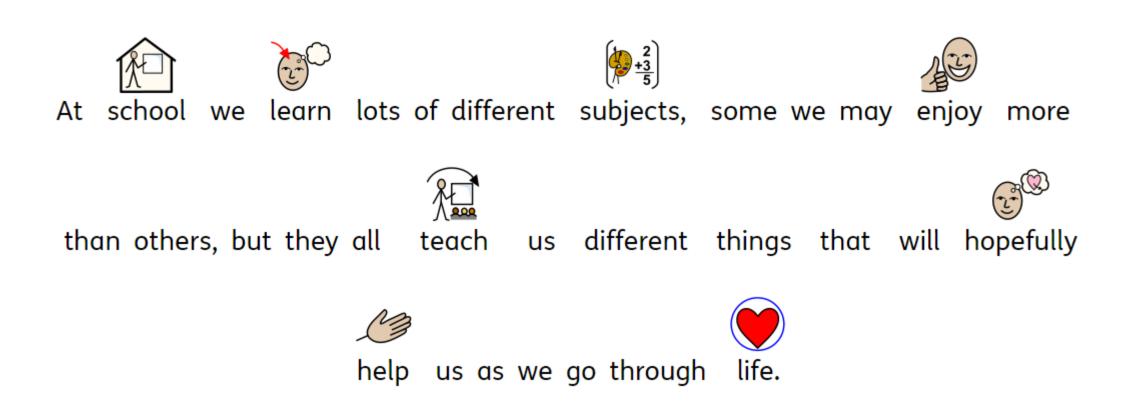

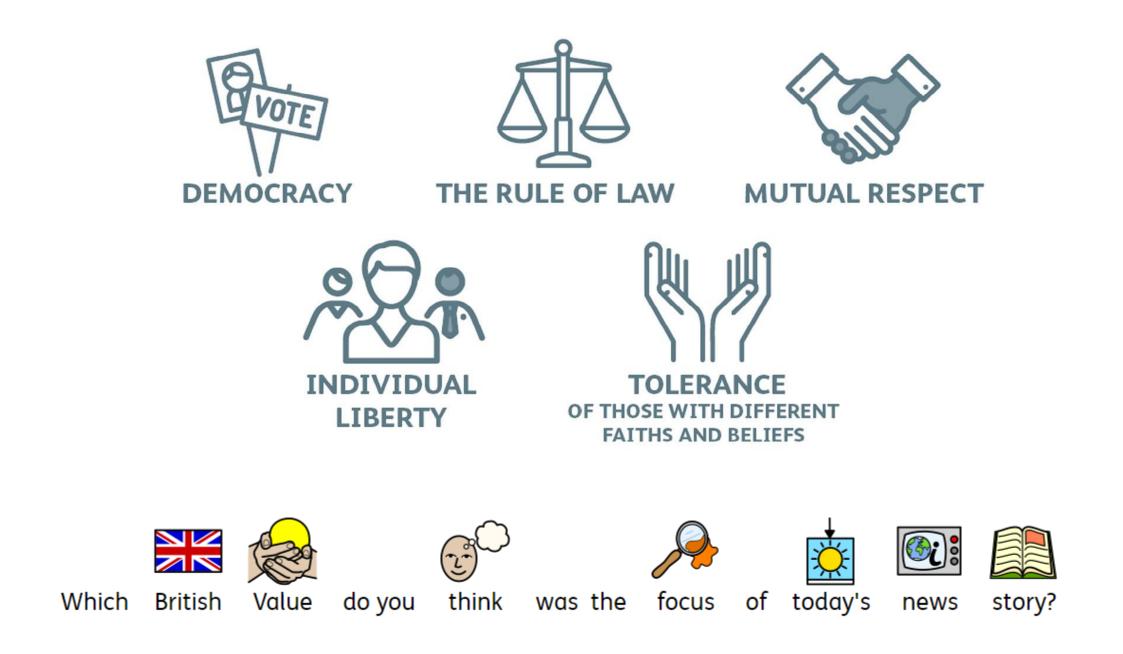

https://www.bbc.co.uk/newsround/49920826

British Values 9th-15th March Individual Liberty If we feel strongly about something that affects us, there are different ways we can share our opinions with those who make decisions. Explaining our reasons can help bring about positive changes.

