Dedication

For Sandy and Jack Floyd Mark and Karin Leuthy Benjamin Louise England
Rob Leuthy

all of whom love love love their dogs

With special thanks to Walter Dean Myers

and to all the poets and Mr.-and-Ms. Stretchberrys who inspire students every day Contents

Dedication
September 13
September 21
September 27
October 4
October 10
October 17
October 24
October 31
November 6
November 9
November 15
November 22
November 29
December 4 December 13
January 10
January 17
January 24
January 31
February 7
February 15
February 21
February 26
March 1
Love That Dog

Excerpt from Hate That Cat

- September 12
- September 13
- September 14
- September 19
SEPTEMBER 13

I don’t want to because boys
don’t write poetry.

Girls do.
SEPTEMBER 21

I tried.
Can’t do it.
Brain’s empty.
SEPTEMBER 27

I don’t understand
the poem about the red wheelbarrow
and the white chickens
and why so much depends upon them.

If that is a poem about the red wheelbarrow
and the white chickens
then any words
can be a poem.
You’ve just got to make short lines.
OCTOBER 4

Do you promise not to read it
out loud?
Do you promise
not to put it on the board?

Okay, here it is,
but I don’t like it.

    So much depends upon
    a blue car
    splattered with mud
    speeding down the road.
OCTOBER 10

What do you mean—
*Why does so much depend upon
a blue car?*

You didn’t say before that I had to tell why.

The wheelbarrow guy didn’t tell why.
What was up with the snowy woods poem you read today?

Why doesn’t the person just keep going if he’s got so many miles to go before he sleeps?

And why do I have to tell more about the blue car
splattered with mud
speeding down the road?
I don’t want to write about that blue car that had miles to go before it slept,
so many miles to go
in such a hurry.
OCTOBER 24

I am sorry to say I did not really understand the tiger tiger burning bright poem but at least it sounded good in my ears.

Here is the blue car
with tiger sounds:

   Blue car, blue car, shining bright in the darkness of the night:
   who could see you speeding by like a comet in the sky?

   I could see you in the night,
   blue car, blue car, shining bright.
   I could see you speeding by like a comet in the sky.

Some of the tiger sounds are still in my ears like drums
beat-beat-beating.
OCTOBER 31

Yes
you can put the two blue-car poems
on the board
but only if you don’t put my name
on them.
They look nice typed up like that on blue paper on a yellow board.

(But still don’t tell anyone who wrote them, okay?)

(And what does anonymous mean?
Is it good?)
NOVEMBER 9

I don’t have any pets so I can’t write about one and especially I can’t write a POEM
about one.
Yes, I used to have a pet.
I don’t want to write about it.

You’re going to ask me
Why not?
Right?
Pretend I still have that pet?

Can’t I make up a pet—a different one?
Like a tiger?
Or a hamster?
A goldfish?
Turtle?
Snail?
Worm?
Flea?
I liked those small poems we read today.

When they’re small like that you can read a whole bunch in a short time and then in your head are all the pictures of all the small things from all the small poems.

I liked how the kitten leaped in the cat poem and how you could see the long head of the horse in the horse poem and especially I liked the dog in the dog poem because that’s just how my yellow dog used to lie down, with his tongue all limp and his chin between his paws and how he’d sometimes chomp at a fly and then sleep in his loose skin, just like that poet, Miss Valerie Worth, says,
in her small dog poem.
Why do you want to type up what I wrote about reading

the small poems?

It’s not a poem.

Is it?

I guess you can put it on the board

if you want to

but don’t put

my name

on it

in case

other people think

it’s not a poem.
I guess it does
look like a poem when you see it typed up like that.

But I think maybe it would look better if there was more space between the lines.
Like how I wrote it the first time.

And I liked the picture of the yellow dog
you put beside it.

But that’s not how my yellow dog
looked.
I really really really did NOT get the pasture poem you read today.

I mean: somebody’s going out to the pasture to clean the spring and to get the little tottery calf while he’s out there and he isn’t going to be gone long and he wants YOU (who is YOU?) to come too.

I mean REALLY.

And you said that Mr. Robert Frost who wrote about the pasture was also the one who wrote about those snowy woods and the miles to go before he sleeps—well!

I think Mr. Robert Frost has a little too much time on his hands.
Remember the wheelbarrow poem you read the first week of school?

Maybe the wheelbarrow poet was just making a picture with words and someone else—like maybe his teacher—typed it up and then people thought it was a poem because it looked like one typed up like that.

And maybe that’s the same thing that happened with Mr. Robert Frost. Maybe he was just making pictures with words about the snowy woods and the pasture—and his teacher typed them up and they looked like poems so people thought they were poems.

Like how you did with the blue-car things and reading-the-small-poems thing.
On the board
typed up
they look like poems
and the other kids are looking at them and they think they really are poems
and they are all saying
Who wrote that?
We were going for a drive and my father said _We won’t be gone long—_ _You come too_
and so I went and we drove and drove until we stopped at a red brick building with a sign in blue letters
ANIMAL PROTECTION SHELTER.

And inside we walked down a long cement path past cages
with all kinds of dogs big and small fat and skinny
some of them
hiding in the corner but most of them
bark-bark-barking and jumping up against the wire cage as we walked past as if they were saying Me! Me! Choose me!
I’m the best one!

And that’s where we saw the yellow dog standing against the cage with his paws curled around the wire
and his long red tongue hanging out
and his big black eyes looking a little sad and his long tail
wag-wag-wagging
as if he were saying Me me me! Choose me!

And we did.
We chose him.

And in the car
he put his head against my chest and wrapped his paws around my arm
as if he were saying
Thank you thank you thank you.

And the other dogs in the cages
get killed dead
if nobody chooses them.
JANUARY 31

Yes
you can type up what I wrote about my yellow dog but leave off the part about the other dogs getting killed dead
because that’s too sad.

And don’t put my name
on it
please.

And maybe it would look good on yellow paper.

And maybe
the title
should be
YOU COME TOO.
Yes
it looks good
on yellow paper
but you forgot (again)
to leave more space between the lines
like I did when I wrote it.

That’s okay though.
I like that poem we read today about street music in the city.

My street is not in the middle of the city so it doesn’t have that LOUD music of horns and trucks clash flash screech.

My street is on the edge of a city and it has quiet music most of the time whisp meow swish.

My street is a thin one with houses on both sides and my house is the white one with the red door.

There is not too much traffic on my street—
not like in the middle of a city.

We play in the yards and sometimes
in the street
but only if a grown-up or the big kids
are out there, too,
and they will shout
Car!
if they see a car
coming down our street.

At both ends of our street are yellow signs that say Caution! Children at Play! but sometimes the cars
pay no attention and speed down
the road as if they are in a BIG hurry with many miles to go before they sleep.
That was so great
those poems you showed us where the words
make the shape of the thing that the poem is about—
like the one about an apple that was shaped like an apple and the one about the house that was shaped like a house.

My brain was pop-pop-popping when I was looking at those poems.
I never knew a poet person could do that funny kind of thing.
FEBRUARY 26

I tried one of those poems that looks like what it’s about.
MY YELLOW DOG
by Jack

head

body

ad

he tail

tail

low

body

he

w yellow

yellow

body

y E nose

do y e l l

body

d h e A d

nose

l o body

o R head

l w body

b e

body

body

body

body

body

body

body

body

wag

y leg

wag

leg leg

wag

leg

wag

leg

wag

leg

wag

leg

leg

leg

leg

leg

leg

paw

paw

slobber

slobber

slobber

slobber

slobber
March 1

Yes
you can type up
the yellow dog poem that looks like a dog but this time
keep the spaces exactly the same
and maybe it would look really really good
on yellow paper.

Maybe you could put my name on it.
But only if you want to.
Only if you think it looks good enough.
MARCH 7

I was a little embarrassed when people said things to me like Neat poem, Jack
and How’d you think of that, Jack?

And I really really like the one you put up about the tree
that is shaped like a tree
not a fake-looking tree but like a real tree with straggly branches.

But I want to know who is the anonymous poet
in our class
who wrote that and why didn’t he or she want to put his or her name
on it?
Was it like me when I didn’t think my words were poems?
Maybe you will tell the anonymous tree poet that his or her tree poem is really a poem really really
and a good poem, too.
March 14

That was the best best BEST poem you read yesterday
by Mr. Walter Dean Myers the best best BEST poem ever.

I am sorry
I took the book home without asking.
I only got one spot
on it.
That’s why
the page is torn.
I tried to get the spot
out.

I copied that BEST poem and hung it on my bedroom wall right over my bed where I can see it when I’m lying down.

Maybe you could
copy it too
and hang it on the wall
in our class
where we can see it when we are sitting at our desks
doing our stuff.

I sure liked that poem
by Mr. Walter Dean Myers called “Love That Boy.”

Because of two reasons
I liked it:
One is because my dad calls me in the morning
just like that.
He calls
Hey there, son!

And also because when I had my yellow dog
I loved that dog and I would call him like this—I’d say—

Hey there, Sky!

(His name was Sky.)
My yellow dog followed me everywhere every which way I turned he was there wagging his tail and slobber coming out of his mouth when he was smiling at me all the time as if he was saying thank you thank you thank you for choosing me and jumping up on me his shaggy straggly paws on my chest like he was trying to hug the insides right out of me.

And when us kids were playing outside kicking the ball he’d chase after it and push it with his nose push push push and getting slobber all over the ball but no one cared because he was such a funny dog that dog Sky that straggly furry smiling
dog Sky.

And I’d call him every morning
every evening Hey there, Sky!
MARCH 27

Yes, you can type up what I wrote about my dog Sky but don’t type up that other secret one I wrote—the one all folded up in the envelope with tape on it. That one uses too many of Mr. Walter Dean Myers’s words and maybe Mr. Walter Dean Myers would get mad about that.
APRIL 4

I was very glad to hear that
Mr. Walter Dean Myers
is not the sort of person who would get mad at a boy
for using some of his words.

And thank you for typing up my secret poem
the one that uses so many of
Mr. Walter Dean Myers’s words and I like what you put
at the top:
Inspired by Walter Dean Myers.

That sounds good
to my ears.
Now no one will think I just copied because I couldn’t think
of my own words.
They will know
I was inspired by
Mr. Walter Dean Myers.

But don’t put it
on the board
yet, okay?

Is Mr. Walter Dean Myers a live person?
And if he is do you think he could ever come to our city
to our school
to our class?

And if he did
we should hide
my poem
with his words—
hide it real good—just in case
he would get mad
about that.
No.
No, no, no, no, no.

I can’t do it.

You should do it.
You’re a teacher.
I don’t agree that Mr. Walter Dean Myers might like to hear from a boy who likes his poems.

I think Mr. Walter Dean Myers would like to hear from a teacher who uses big words and knows how to spell
and to type.
Dear Mr. Walter Dean Myers,

You probably don’t want to hear from me because I am only a boy and not a teacher and I don’t use big words and you probably won’t read this or even if you do read it you probably are way too busy to answer it let alone do the thing I am going to ask you and I want you to know that’s okay because our teacher says writers are very very very very busy trying to write their words and the phone is ringing and the fax is going and the bills need paying and sometimes they get sick (I hope you are not sick, Mr. Walter Dean Myers) or their family gets sick or their electricity goes off or the car needs fixing or they have to go to the grocery store or do the laundry or clean up messes. I don’t know how you find the time to write your words if you have to do all that stuff and maybe you should get a helper.

So what I am asking you is this:
If you ever get time to leave your house and if you ever feel like visiting a school where there might be some kids who like your poems would you ever maybe think about maybe coming
maybe
to our school
which is a clean place with mostly nice people in it and I think our teacher Miss Stretchberry
would maybe even make brownies for you because she sometimes makes them for us.

I hope I haven’t too much stopped you from doing your writing of words and fixing your car and getting groceries and all that stuff—just to read this letter which probably is taking you maybe fifteen minutes and in that time you could’ve maybe written a whole new poem or at least the start of one and so I am sorry for taking up your time and I understand
if you can’t come to our clean school and read some of your poems to us and let us see your face which I bet is a friendly face.

My name is Jack.
Bye, Mr. Walter Dean Myers.
APRIL 20

Did you mail it?
Did he answer yet?
APRIL 24

Months???
It might take months
for Mr. Walter Dean Myers to answer my letter?
If he answers it?

I didn’t know——
until you explained—— that the letter has to go to Mr. Walter Dean Myers’s publisher company and then someone at the publisher company has to sort all the mail not just my letter but hundreds and hundreds of letters to hundreds of authors all that big mess of mail piled up
and someone sorting sorting sorting all that mail
and then the letters for Mr. Walter Dean Myers
go to him
and maybe he’s away maybe he’s on vacation
maybe he’s sick
maybe he’s hiding in a room writing poems
maybe he’s baby-sitting his children or his grandchildren (if he’s married and stuff) or maybe he has to go to the dentist or get that car fixed or maybe someone died (I really really really hope someone did not die) so if you ask me
it could take him \textit{years} to get around to answering that letter
so I guess
we’d better
just forget about it not count on it get it out of our minds do something else
forget it.
Sometimes when you are trying not to think about something it keeps popping back into your head
you can’t help it you think about it
and think about it
and think about it until your brain feels like a squashed pea.
Yes
you can type up
the thing about trying not to think about something
but you’d better
leave my name off it because it was just words
coming out of my head and I wasn’t paying too much attention to which words
came out when.
MAY 7

Maybe you could show me how to use the computer and then I could type up my own words?
I didn’t know about the spell-checking thing inside the computer. It is like a miracle little brain in there a little helper brain.

But I am a slow typer person. Did you say there is a teaching-typing thing in that computer, too? Will it help me type better and faster taptaptaptaptap so my fingers can go as fast as my brain?
MAY 14

(I typed this up myself.)
MY SKY

We were outside
in the street
me and some other kids kicking the ball before dinner and Sky was chasing chasing chasing with his feet going every which way
and his tail
wag-wag-wagging
and his mouth
slob-slob-slobbering
and he was all over the place

smiling and wagging
and slobbering
and making us laugh
and my dad
came walking up the street he was way down there near the end I could see him
after he got off the bus and he was walk-walk-walking and I saw him wave and he called out “Hey there, son!”
and so I didn’t see the car coming from the other way until someone else—one of the big kids—called out “Car!” and I turned around and saw a blue car blue car
splattered with mud
speeding down the road
And I saw Sky
going after the ball
wag-wag-wagging
his tail and I called him “Sky! Sky!”
and he turned his head
but it was too late because the blue car blue car
splattered with mud
hit Sky thud thud thud
and kept on going in such a hurry
so fast
so many miles to go
it couldn’t even stop
and Sky
was just there in the road lying on his side with his legs bent funny and his side heaving and he looked up at me and I said “Sky! Sky! Sky!” and then my dad was there and he lifted Sky
out of the road
and laid him on the grass and Sky
closed his eyes
and he never opened them
again
ever.
MAY 15

I don’t know.

If you put it on the board and people read it it might make them sad.
Okay.
I guess.
I’ll put my name on it.

But I hope it doesn’t make people feel too sad and if it does maybe you could think of something to cheer everybody up like maybe with some of those brownies you make the chocolate ones that are so good?
Wow!
Wow wow wow wow wow!

That was the best best BEST news ever I can’t believe it.

Mr. Walter Dean Myers is really really really coming to our school?

He was coming to our city anyway to see his old buddy?

And he would be honored to visit our clean school and meet the mostly nice kids who like his poems?

We sure are lucky that his old buddy lives in our town.

WOW!!!
MAY 28

The bulletin board
looks like it’s blooming words with everybody’s poems
up there on all those colored sheets of paper yellow blue pink red green.

And the bookcase
looks like it’s sprouting books all of them by Mr. Walter Dean Myers lined up looking back at us waiting for
Mr. Walter Dean Myers himself
to come to our school
right into our classroom.

Wow!
MAY 29

I can’t wait.
I can’t sleep.

Are you sure you hid my poem that was inspired
by Mr. Walter Dean Myers?

I don’t want to do any any anything
to upset him.
JUNE 1

MR. WALTER DEAN MYERS DAY

I NEVER in my whole life EVER heard anybody who could talk like that Mr. Walter Dean Myers.
All of my blood in my veins was bubbling
and all of the thoughts in my head were buzzing
and I wanted to keep
Mr. Walter Dean Myers
at our school forever.
Dear Mr. Walter Dean Myers,

Thank you a hundred million times
for leaving your work and your family
and your things-people-have-to-do to come and visit us in our school
in our class.

We hope you liked your visit.
We think maybe you did because you were smile-smile-smiling
all over the place.

And when you read your poems
you had the best best BEST voice
low and deep and friendly and warm like it was reaching out and wrapping us all up in a big squeeze
and when you laughed
you had the
best best BEST
laugh I’ve ever heard in my life like it was coming from way down deep and bubbling up and rolling and tumbling out into the air.

We hope we didn’t ask you too many questions but we thank you for answering every which one and especially for saying that you would be flattered
if someone used some of your words
and especially if they added a note that they were inspired by Walter Dean Myers.

And it was nice of you to read all of our poems on the bulletin board and I hope it didn’t make you too sad when you read the one about my dog Sky getting smooshed in the road.
And I think you liked the brownies, too,
right?

Thank you for coming to see us
Mr. Walter Dean Myers.

Inside this envelope is a poem
using some of your words.
I wrote it.
It was inspired by
you
Mr. Walter Dean Myers.

From your number one fan,

Jack
Love that dog,
like a bird loves to fly I said I love that dog
like a bird loves to fly Love to call him in the morning love to call him “Hey there, Sky!”
Excerpt from Hate That Cat

Read an excerpt from Sharon Creech’s new novel HATE THAT CAT
JACK

ROOM 204—MISS STRETCHBERRY

SEPTEMBER 12

I hate that cat
like a dog hates a rat I said I hate that cat
like a dog hates a rat

Hate to see it in the morning hate to see that F  A  T  black cat.
Sorry
I didn’t know
you liked cats.
Didn’t know
you have one.
More poetry?
You probably think we will remember what we learned
last year, right?

What if we don’t remember?
What if our brains shrunk?
What if it’s too hard?

But I am glad you are my teacher
again.
I hope you will keep moving up a grade every year along with me.

You understand my brain.
SEPTEMBER 19

No, I can’t write any more about my dog Sky. Maybe all of the words about Sky flew out of my head last year.

I think about him all the time and I see him in my mind and some of his yellow fur is still on my yellow chair and sometimes I think I hear him uh-rum, uh-rum that sound he made when he was happy.

But no, I can’t write about Sky a-n-y-m-o-r-e. Maybe I could write about a cat a mean cat a crazy mean fat black cat.

Although . . . my uncle Bill who is a teacher in a college said those words I wrote about Sky were NOT poems. He said they were just words coming
out
of my head
and that a poem has to rhyme and have regular meter and SYMBOLS and METAPHORS and onomoto-something and alliter-something.

And I wanted to punch
him.
Another thing Uncle Bill said was that my lines should be longer like in real writing

But here is what happens when I try to make them longer the page is too wide and the words get all mumble jumbled and it makes my eyes hurt all that white space the edge of the page so far away and in order to get all the words down that are coming out of my head I have to forget the commas and periods or I have to go back and stick them in, all over, the place, like this, which looks, if you ask me, stupid, but if you write short lines, a person knows where to breathe, short or long, and I hate to read, those long lines, and I don’t want to write them, either.
SEPTEMBER 26

I wish you would tell my uncle Bill
all those things you said today about our own rhythms and our own IMAGES bouncing around in our words and making them POEMS.

And yes I understand that if I am ever the President of the United States I might be expected to write very very long lines but in the meantime I can make my lines
short
short
short
if I want to.
But even if you told my uncle Bill
all that stuff
he wouldn’t believe you.
He likes to argue.

My mother likes my short
lines.
She runs her fingers down them
and then
taps
her lips
once, twice.
And I think I understood what you said about onomoto-something and alliter-something not HAVING to be in a poem and how sometimes they ENRICH a poem but sometimes they can also make a poem sound purple.

Purple!
Ha ha ha.
Okay, okay, okay
I will learn how to spell ALLITERATION
and ONOMATOPOEIA (right?)
and I will practice them just in case I ever need them to ENRICH something.

Ready?

Um.

Um.

I can’t do it.
Brain frozen.

First you need to have something to write about.
You can’t just alliterate
and onomatopoeiate
all over the place
can you?
About the Author

SHARON CREECH is the author of the Newbery Medal winner WALK TWO MOONS and the Newbery Honor Book THE WANDERER. Her other work includes the novels THE GREAT UNEXPECTED, THE UNFINISHED ANGEL, HATE THAT CAT, THE CASTLE CORONA, REPLAY, HEARTBEAT, GRANNY TORRELLI MAKES SOUP, RUBY HOLLER, LOVE THAT DOG, BLOOMABILITY, ABSOLUTELY NORMAL CHAOS, CHASING REDBIRD, and PLEASING THE GHOST, as well as three picture books: A FINE, FINE SCHOOL; FISHING IN THE AIR; and WHO’S THAT BABY? Ms. Creech and her husband live in Maine. You can visit her online at www.sharoncreech.com.

Discover great authors, exclusive offers, and more at hc.com.
Books by Sharon Creech

WALK TWO MOONS ABSOLUTELY NORMAL CHAOS PLEASING THE GHOST
CHASING REDBIRD BLOOMABILITY
THE WANDERER
FISHING IN THE AIR
LOVE THAT DOG
A FINE, FINE SCHOOL RUBY HOLLER GRANNY TORRELLI MAKES SOUP HEARTBEAT WHO’S THAT BABY?
REPLAY
THE CASTLE CORONA
THE UNFINISHED ANGEL
Cover art © 2001 by William Steig Cover design by Alicia Mikles About the Publisher

Australia
HarperCollins Publishers (Australia) Pty. Ltd.
Level 13, 201 Elizabeth Street Sydney, NSW 2000, Australia http://www.harpercollins.com.au

Canada
HarperCollins Canada
2 Bloor Street East - 20th Floor Toronto, ON, M4W, 1A8, Canada http://www.harpercollins.ca

New Zealand
HarperCollins Publishers New Zealand Unit D, 63 Apollo Drive Rosedale 0632
Auckland, New Zealand
http://www.harpercollins.co.nz

United Kingdom
HarperCollins Publishers Ltd.
77-85 Fulham Palace Road London, W6 8JB, UK
http://www.harpercollins.co.uk

United States
HarperCollins Publishers Inc.
195 Broadway
New York, NY 10007
http://www.harpercollins.com